

Summary Notation: ArchiMate 3 Application Advanced

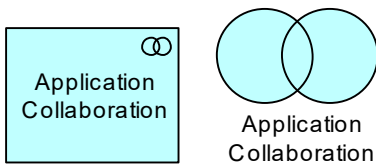

Notation based on The Open Group ArchiMate 3.0 Specification

An application is an aggregate that contains a smaller reusable application component.

An application component is a composite that contains an internal application component.

An Application Collaboration represents a group of application components working together to provide functionality.

An application collaboration is an aggregate of two or more application components.

An Application Interaction models behavior performed by multiple application components working together.

An application collaboration is assigned to an application interaction.

An Application Interface represents a point of access to application services.

An application component is a composite that provides an interface which serves another application component.

An application component has an association to a provided interface which serves another application component.